

I always wonder, why was summer so fun last year? One of the reasons is I got to spend a week, overnight, at camp wanaake. It was my first time away from the house, for more than one night. I was kinda nervous because I didn't have any friends going along with me, but I made a lot of new friends at camp. Some of my favorite parts of camp was cooking my own pancakes and bacon, bathing a horse, and attending a water carnival. Being away at camp, made me realize that there is more to life than electronics. I was so busy during the week, that I didn't need my TV or ipod. I was growing closer to God each day, by learning bible verses to the tune of songs. We even got to have church in a chapel, in the woods. I feel so lucky, I got to go to camp, I was able to go because of the generous people, of Faith United Methodist church, and the scholarships I got. I can't wait to go back to camp this summer.
